BOMBS AMAZE, MADDEN JAPS

Major Bong, Top Air Ace, Killed in Jet Plane Crash

BURBANK, Calif—Maj. Richard I. Bong, America's greatest ace, was killed in the flaming crash of a jet plane from which he desperately tried to jump clear, investigators said today.

Bong, 24-year-old congressional medal of honor holder, died yesterday as he struggled to free his heavy clothing from the narrow escape hatch of the P-80 Shooting Star he was testing. He had almost bailed out when the crippled aircraft exploded.

The force of the blast, which shattered the plane into pieces less than three feet square, shot Bong's body clear of the plane. He had pulled the ripcord of his parachute, and its silken folds swirled about the crumpled body as flames swept over it.

Bong was brought home for "safe" duty after he became America's all time air ace by shooting down 40 of the enemy without a scratch. "Safe" duty was testing the jet-propelled P-80, the army's newest fighter model.

WITNESSES DID NOT AGREE

on the cause of the crash. One army flier said Bong overshot the Lockheed landing field. Another said something appeared to fall out of the tail of the rocket-like ship.

A Lockheed mechanic said he saw a puff of black smoke come out of the plane. Then the escape hatch flew off, he said, and the plane nosed over straight down.

Bong contacted the control tower at the field almost as soon as he was airborne, officials said, and reported he was having trouble.

"He was dipping first one wing, then the other," said one witness. "The motor was making a muffled popping. He flew over some telephone wires and under high tension wires making for a vacant lot."

THEN WITH A ROARING

sigh like a giant blowtorch the ship turned over a clump of trees and exploded in the field. Smoke and flames boiled up 400 feet and brought crowds running from the airport, a mile away.

By the time the wreckage was reached it had been almost entirely consumed and Bong's body was badly burned.

The shy Poplar, Wis., farm boy, curly headed and blue-eyed, once admitted to his sister he always was scared before he got into his plane to head out for a death duel with the enemy.

Mrs. Marjorie Bong, his 21-year-old widow leaves today to accompany the body to Superior, Wis., in an army transport plane.

Two Drivers Plead Guilty, One Innocent

Arthur Brilinski Osaneke, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Monday to driving while under the influence of liquor. He paid a fine of $50 and $3.35 costs. His operator's license was revoked. Brilinski was arrested by City police, July 30, shortly after an accident in which the automobile he was driving collided with a car parked on Washington-av, facing east.

Henry Kuebler, 124 E. Lewis, pleaded not guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor. Trial was set for Aug. 29. Kuebler was arrested by City police following an accident shortly after midnight Sunday when his car collided at First and Chisholm with a truck driven by Merrill Kershner, Boyne City. The truck is owned by Mrs. Mabel Kennedy, Belton.

Carl A. Schifele Royal Oak, this morning pleaded guilty to reckless driving and paid a fine of $25 and $3.35 costs. He was arrested by State police, Monday night, when his automobile went off the road nine miles north of Alpena on US-23. Schifele said he fell asleep. The car was extensively damaged.

City Tax Levy 92.4 Per Cent Paid

The city tax levy of -388,764.85 was 92.4 per cent paid by Aug. 1 City Treasurer Edward Segwin reported Monday night to the Municipal Council.

Treasurer Segwin reported a total of $363,091.11 collected and that $145,412.71 was received on July 31 the final day before the deadline. Last year's percentage of collection at this time was the same.

Alpena's share of the state's 10 per cent liquor tax for June was $2,671.01, Treasurer Segwin also reported. The June allocation was the first from the newly enacted law.

The county's share, it was revealed recently, was $7,242.

Manpower Controls Partially Suspended

Effective Aug. 1st, manpower controls in the Alpena area have been suspended to a certain degree, it was announced by R. H. McGinn, area supervisor of the War Manpower commission.

In suspending these controls, it was pointed out that there was no particular need for maintaining these controls at this time inasmuch as the manpower situation is not as critical as it was when manufacturers were producing articles for war in both the European and Pacific theaters.

These controls are temporarily suspended, McGinn pointed out because the local office of the United States Employment Service has a great responsibility to render to returning veterans from the armed forces. Employers are requested to notify the employment service when in need of workers so that all returning veterans will be given every job opportunity possible in the local community.

The manpower controls suspended at the present time are: (1) Statement of availability by employers is no longer required. (2) Statements of availability are no longer required. (3) Male workers 17 years of age or older are no longer required to be referred by the USES.

In-migrant workers or persons who have not lived or worked in the community during the past 30 days will still be required to have a referral card from the local USES.

125 B-29s Hit Japanese Naval Arsenal

GUAM—A fleet of 125 Superfortresses hit the Toyokawa naval arsenal with 880 tons of high-explosive bombs today while smoke still belched from atom-bombed Hiroshima, 300 miles to the west.

Radio Tokyo said 40 Two-boom American Mustang fighter-bombers led by a lone B-29 almost simultaneously bombed and strafed military installations and "cities" in the Tokyo-Yokohama area for an hour for the fourth time in five days.

Several British planes participated in the Tokyo raid, Tokyo said.

FROM OKINAWA CAME

a belated report that 400 bombers and fighters of the far eastern air force had utterly demolished what appeared to be a robot plane launching installations and other military targets in Tarumizu in southern Kyushu. The city itself was left a sea of flames, airmen said.

Returning pilots said they saw on the ground a number of small planes resembling the V-1 or V-2 jet-propelled and rocket robot bombs used by the Germans against Britain. It was theorized that the Japanese might have been plotting a robot bombardment of the American invasion base of Okinawa, 350 miles to the southwest.

GEN. CARL A. SPAATZ, commander of the strategic air forces, also revealed that final reports on yesterday's B-29 raid on five Honshu industrial cities showed that 572 bombers hit the primary targets, 26 dropped mines and nine strayed at targets of opportunity. The crew of the only B-29 lost was rescued.

Today's big bomber raid on the Tokyo-Yokohama area followed one yesterday by 97 Iwo-based Mustangs on nine airfields bordering the capitol.

Presque Isle Valuation Up

LANSING—Recommended tax valuation changes by counties were placed on file today by the State Board of Equalization preliminary to a public hearing Aug. 20 when counties may present arguments against the tentative values fixed by the State Tax commission.

The 1945 tax valuation recommendations is figure is $7,329,550,000 for Michigan compared to $7,433,725,000 for last year.

Twelve county tax valuations have been increased this year. Decreases were proposed for 11 counties.

The principal increases were a $50,000,000 hike in Wayne and Oakland counties' tax valuations.

The increases, comparing 1945 tentative to 1944 final valuations, included: Wayne $43,400,000,000 to $3,450,000,000; Bonzie $5,825,000 to $6,000,000; Dickinson $24,000,000 to $25,000,000; Eaton $28,750,000 to $30,450,000; Grand Traverse $17,500,000 to $17,700,000; Ingham $117,300,000 to $122,800,000; Kalkaska $2,525,000 to $2,550,000; Mecosta $12,400,000 to $12,700,000; Muskegon $125,000,000 to $130,000,000; Oakland $490,000,000 to $450,000,000; Presque Isle $14,600,000 to $15,000,000; and School crafts $4,200,000 to $4,400,000.

Will Japs Quit?

WASHINGTON—For good or ill, man has unlocked the incalculable power of the atom. He has entered upon the atomic age.

His first use of this power—the same that energizes the sun, the stars, and the far galaxies—has been to make a bomb.

It is the most terrible engine of destruction ever conceived. It may end the Japanese war soon. If the Japanese decide to fight on, it will demolish their homeland.

But when the bomb's work is done, its makers hope to convert its power to the arts of peace, and to the enforcement of peace.

Atomic power could remake the world or destroy it.

Its power to destroy has been made manifest to the Japanese. An atomic bomb more devastating than 20,000 tons of TNT was dropped on the Japanese army base of Hiroshima on Sunday.

President Truman yesterday gave the enemy another chance to accept the surrender-or-be destroyed ultimatum of Potsdam.

"If they do not accept our terms," he said, "they may expect a rain of ruin from the air, the like of which has never been seen on this earth."

Observers here believe the Japanese this time—if they have any reason left—might see the light.

But it may be that many more bombs will have to be dropped upon Japan. Invasion troops may have to follow the bombs. The United States takes no chances. Size of the army will not be reduced now because the new weapon is in use.

Approves Widening

Council Votes $175 for Cutting Corner at State and Chisholm; Saw Mill Operation Protested

Widening of the junction of State-av and Chisholm-st by cutting approximately eight feet off the J. W. Ball corner at a cost of $175 was approved Monday night by the Municipal Council.

City Manager Scott, asked a week ago to submit a report on the project because of frequent automobile crashes at that point, said the widening will entail moving a hydrant, relocating a catch basin and a sign and removing and replacing the concrete curb and paving.

The city manager a week ago said that a target type flasher would be placed at the junction to guide motorists turning from State-av to Chisholm-st. In numerous instances, motorists have plowed into the Chamber of Commerce property and building because they failed to notice in time that a turn was required.

THE COUNCIL REFERRED to the city manager for a report next week a petition signed by Robert Hallther and 24 others for bituminous paving of Tuttle-st between Washington-av and Ninth-av. The petitioners pledged to pay their share of the project.

The city manager revealed that physical examination of city employes is under way at a cost of $2 per employe in accordance with civil service requirements. Manager Scott reported that the examination in no way affects the status of present employes and is being carried out chiefly to complete employe records.

CITY ATTORNEY KNAPP was instructed to advise the Council next week what steps may be taken under existing city ordinances to comply with a petition signed by 12 persons "to restrain Phil Skiba from operating his saw mill on Bosley-st in such manner as to create a nuisance in that immediate neighborhood and for the further reason that such noise is seriously affecting the health of Mrs. George Grzeskowiak, aged 84."

Signatures on the petition included George Grzeskowiak, Fred Hahn, B. Kazorowski, W. Kazorowski, Mrs. P. H. Burnett, N. Illsley, Mrs. Catherine Broadwell, Mrs. F. Shea, Francis Soper, Mrs. Albert Frantz-jr, Mrs. Rose Konecke, Mrs. Vic DeCaire and Edward Larsen.

THE CITY MANAGER'S report revealed 66 patients in General hospital as of July 29, 69 patients admitted, 61 discharged and 14 births during the past week and 74 patients on July 31.

Municipal Judge Leblanc reported $204.35 collected during July in fines and costs in state and ordinance cases and costs in civil cases.

Kunath Warns Of Drug Evil

Edward F. Kunath, former chief of the narcotics division of the Detroit police department, appealed to members of the Rotary club Monday noon to call in their power to save young people from the horrors of the life of a drug addict and warned against the possibility that the deadly marihuana weed may be growing in vacant lots or back yards here or anywhere else in Michigan.

MARIHUANA IS A SINISTER drug because it can be grown plentifully and consumed so easily, said Mr. Kunath, who now lives in Hillman. The opium user must have a needle and he knows the confirmed addict often consumes 50 to 60 pills daily and at $1 a pill that becomes expensive. Morphine, cocaine, heroin are comparatively expensive. But marihuana may be found growing wild. It is easily dried, stripped from the stems, powdered and sifted and then rolled into cigarettes.

"Curiosity starts many young people down the road of ruin through drug addiction," said Mr. Kunath. "Once a girl or young man will take the first false step on a dare. Sometimes they fall into the hands of professional dope peddlers who elaborate on the pleasant effect of a certain drug and prevail on the prospect to take the first dose.

"ANY OF US IN THIS room are potential addicts. I've heard many a man and woman, just starting on dope say they would not sink to the level of the veteran dope, but they have sunk to that level, or worse. And remember that once you're hooked you stay hooked. I think one way to turn young people against marihuana is to describe the conditions of filth and disease of the dives in which the cigarettes are rolled. The peddler rolls his cigarette and makes the paper fast with his saliva. When a youth knows that a cigarette may be the source of infection with syphilis, tuberculosis, and many other deadly ailments he will be chary about putting one into his mouth."

Retarian Walter Schmidt was chairman of the meeting.

BAY CITY — Police reported today that Edward C Walters, 30, West Bay City, was electrocuted yesterday when he took hold of a metal derrick, touching a high tension wire. Walters was employed as a well digger at the Ogemaw county ranch of Dr. Edmund Koneczny, Detroit.

Veach, Former Tiger Outfielder, Dies

DETROIT—Robert Veach, 57, former American league ball player, died at his home here today after a prolonged illness.

Veach, a native of St. Charles, Ky., and former resident of Herrin, Ill., played left field for the Detroit Tigers from 1912 until 1923. He then played for the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Washington Senators before retiring from the game in 1930 to buy a coal yard here.

Veach is survived by his wife, Ethel, and three sons, Edward, home on leave from the navy, and Walter and Mark, Detroit.

Tokyo Radio Believes More Than One Missile Hit Them

GUAM—Tokyo said today that American atomic bombs descended on Hiroshima by parachute yesterday, exploding before reaching the ground and caused such great devastation that authorities still have not ascertained its full extent.

Believe New Bomb Dropped By Parachute

WASHINGTON—Some sidelights on the atomic bomb:

One British scientist estimated the explosive charge in the bomb —equal to 20,000 tons of TNT— might weigh as little as 10 pounds.

President Truman said merely that it was "exceedingly small." The War department wouldn't give the dimensions.

The bomb apparently has a delayed action mechanism, or perhaps is dropped by a sort of parachute arrangement. Otherwise it might disintegrate, or at least wreck the airplane that drops it. When the test bomb was set off on a tower in New Mexico last month, the blast "billowed upward with tremendous power more than 40,000 feet." The steel forward tower in New Mexico experiment was "vaporized"—just disappeared in the form of gas.

The $2,000,000,000 project for development of the bomb was directed by what the army called the "Manhattan engineer district."

That was the code name to keep it secret. Anything for the "Manhattan" project got the highest priorities. If the people who issued the priority orders had an idea what the project meant, they kept their guesses to themselves.

Another code word used for the atomic explosive in some circles was "bubble gun." In England it was called the "tube alloys" project.

Could an atomic bomb start an earthquake in Japan? Or set off a volcanic eruption? The Rev. Frederick Sohon of Georgetown university, prominent seismologist, thinks it would take "a lucky break" to do it, and that there's not much chance of such an accident. "You would have to have an explosive capable of penetrating miles of rock before you could talk of man-made earthquakes," he said.

Father Sohon's seismograph recorded a faint earth shock at 8:22 p.m. Sunday—the day the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan—but he didn't think the bomb caused it.

Disclosure of the atomic bomb has cleared up one mysterious incident. On July 16, a great explosion shook much of New Mexico and a flash of light was seen more than 100 miles away. It was passed off at the time as the explosion of an isolated ammunition dump. Now it is revealed to have been the explosion of the first test atomic bomb.

There is just a possibility that some other mysteries may be cleared up. A few months ago a great flash and explosion occurred in the sky over the middle Atlantic seaboard. It was generally believed to have been a shooting meteor. Some persons theorized today that it might have been the explosion of an experimental atomic ingredient of the atomic bomb. There was no confirmation of this idea, however.

Japanese propagandists said the use of the new weapon was "sufficient to brand the enemy for ages to come as the destroyer of . . . mankind" and "public enemy number one of social justice."

An investigation was underway into the extent of the destruction in the world's first atomic bombing, Tokyo said. First reports showed that a "considerable number" of houses had been demolished and fires broke out at several places the broadcast added.

THE BROADCAST, COMING almost 36 hours after the raid, said the destructive power of the new weapon "cannot be slighted," but claimed Japanese authorities were working out "effective countermeasures."

"This history of war shows the new weapon, however effective, will eventually lose its power, as the opponent is bound to find methods to nullify its effects," Tokyo said hopefully.

The enemy version of the attack said a small number of American planes dropped a "few" of the new-type bombs. It was announced officially at Washington that only one bomb was dropped. It was apparent the Japanese could not believe a single plane and a single bomb could cause so much destruction.

TOKYO ATTRIBUTED THE American use of the atomic bomb to impatience over the "slow progress of the enemy's much-vaunted invasion of Japan's mainland."

In view of the gallant withdrawal of the Japanese forces as exemplified by the battles of Iwo Jima and Okinawa, the enemy's hope of a quick battle and a quick decision in the forthcoming battle of Japan's homeland has been well-nigh frustrated," the broadcast said.

"In these circumstances, the enemy began to employ a barbaric method as a last and desperate resort. By employing a new weapon designed to massacre innocent civilians, the Americans have opened the eyes of the world to their sadistic nature."

A JAPANESE IMPERIAL headquarters communique also conceded that "new-type bombs" had caused "considerable damage."

An earlier Japanese broadcast had reported the cancellation of trains in the Hiroshima area as a result of rail damage.

Accurate assessment of the destruction still awaited reconnaissance photographs.

Earlier yesterday Japanese broadcasts had reported a small force of Superfortresses raided Hiroshima with incendiaries and explosives about 8:20 a.m.

Tokyo also revealed the Japanese cabinet met today to discuss transportation of materials from China and other "internal and foreign affairs." These presumably included the atomic bombing raid.

HIROSHIMA LIES 15 MILES north of Kure on the Honshu coast of Japan's Inland Sea. A port and a major communications center, the main route between Tokyo and Shimonoseki, Hiroshima was the site of such important war plants as the Japan steel works, the Osaka machine tool company and Mitsubishi heavy industries.

Informed sources at Pearl Harbor said the full development of the bomb would revolutionize warfare and eliminate some nations now in war.

These sources said the bomb was understood to have the power to blind persons within a five-mile radius and to kill within four miles.

THE SEARING BLAST was said to fuse the earth into silicate-like formations.

Navy sources suggested the new bomb would rip apart even the most tightly compartmented warships now in use, while the water concussion from a near-miss would buckle plates and send most ships to the bottom.

Most fortifications now in use probably would collapse under even a near miss. The thick concrete pillboxes and blockhouses used by the Japanese on Okinawa and Iwo would have disintegrated.

Whether deep caves from which the Japanese also fought would survive was problematical, but even there troops anywhere but in the extreme depths" probably would be killed by the concussion.

Sewer, Water Main Cost Is Set at $14,685

To spend $14,685 for a sewer and water main project of great potential value or several hundred dollars to meet immediate sewer and water main requirements in the area along Franklin-st between Washington-av and Third-av is the question facing members of the Municipal Council.

City Manager Robert S. Scott Monday night was instructed by the Council to report at next week's meeting on the assessed valuation of the territory to be served and to suggest ways and means of financing the more costly project.

SCOTT RECOMMENDED the long range project and expressed the hope that it could be accomplished next year as a link that eventually will be needed in the city's easter sewer and water main plan.

The sewer requested for Franklin-st cannot be connected to the Ontario-st sewer due to the grade, the city manager reported, in advising a connection with the sewer in Rockaway and Hubbard's eight-inch pipe from Oliver-st down Third-av to Franklin-st and then north of Washington-av.

SCOTT SUGGESTED that a special assessment of the adjacent property could be voted to help finance the cost.

Following is itemized cost of the proposed project:

1800 Lin. ft. 8 in Cl Water Main at $2.20	$3960.00
1000 Lin. ft 10 in. Cl Water Main at $2.75	2750.00
3-6 in hydrants at $175.00	525.00
Miscellaneous fittings	250.00
10 percent contingencies	730.00
Total for water	$8205.00
1200 Lin. ft 15 in V. C. Sewer at $2.50	3,000.00
1200 lin. ft 8 in V. C. Sewer at $1.50	1800.00
Eight manholes at $100.00	800.00
15 percent contingencies	800.00
Total for Sewer	$6400.00
Total Sewer and Water	$14,685.00

Blight May Hit State's Onion Crop

LANSING — Michigan's onion crop is reported in good condition but at a critical stage with dusting by airplane for mildew and thrip being carried on in all areas, the State Crop Reporting service said today.

If dusting fails to check the blight's spread, a poor yield may result, but if it succeeds, the yield per acre may exceed last year's.

Carrots are reported in good condition with some small early carrots moving to market this week.

Dismissed Prison Officials to Receive September Hearing

LANSING—Civil Service commission hearings on the ouster of Warden Harry H. Jackson and six other high officials of southern Michigan prison at Jackson probably will be held in early September, deputy civil service director Arthur Rasch said today.

Appeals from permanent suspensions ordered against the seven men by the Corrections commission have been received, Rasch said.

Removal of Jackson and six of his top aides was ordered by the Corrections commission after Attorney General John R. Dethmers charged that inmates of the prison literally ran the institution through powerful ringleaders who controlled gambling and vice within the walls and frequently left the prison on short visits.

Plumb lines show Empire State building's sides are vertically parallel to those of hotel building in foreground

Ever since the tragic accident in which a B-25 bomber crashed with terrific force into the Empire State building tower, the city has been flooded with rumors that the impact had caused the building to list, becoming a sort of "Leaning Tower of Pisa." However, experts flatly testified that the building is sound, and the diagram above appears to bear them out. Plumb lines on diagram above are drawn parallel to the walls of the Hotel McAlpin, in front of the Empire State.

Snap Beans Require Care For Freezing

BY DOROTHY SCOTT
Home Economics Agent

For freezing, snap beans require more careful attention than most other vegetables. The latest information indicates that preparation for freezing by method 2 may prove to be most satisfactory. Try some both ways to see which your family likes best. Variety, too, seems to be very important in beans.

Selection. Avoid over-mature and too-small pods, but use young ones. The Kentucky Wonder variety has proven most successful.

Preparation. Sort, wash, snip and cut in three-fourths inch lengths.

How to Pack—Two ways:

Scald in lots of boiling water for two minutes, plunge in cold or ice water for an equal amount of time. Drain well. Pack in air tight containers.

Cook beans until almost done enough to serve. Cool quickly in a quantity of cold water. Drain. Pack in air tight containers. Leave expansion space. Label.

Canning. Wash and cut into pieces. Cover with boiling water and simmer, uncovered, five minutes. Pack into clean hot jars, leaving half inch of headspace. Cover with the hot cooking water and add one teaspoon of salt to each quart. Process in the pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure—30 minutes for pints and 35 minutes for quarts.

Housewife's Dream

New Gadget Washes Dishes and Clothes, Peels Potatoes, Churns Butter, Makes Ice Cream

CHICAGO — Realization of a housewife's dream—a combination clothes washer, potato peeler and dish washer, with the addition of a butter churn and ice cream freezer only a step away—was near today.

Unlike many postwar dreams, this one will come true by the first of 1946, unless an unexpected material shortage develops.

Edward N Hurley, president of the Hurley machine division of Electric Household Utilities Chicago, is the man responsible for the domestic miracle.

The Thor automatic washer will be called, the "dream". It's planned as kitchen unit to be operated daily as a dish washer and potato peeler.

THEN, ON WASH DAY, THE housewife need only install the clothes washing attachment light enough to be lifted and attached in less than a minute, Hurley said.

One model will be equipped with an automatic dial. The housewife sets the dial and then does her housework while the new appliance washes, rinses and damp dries the clothes.

Hurley said the machine uses the spinner-agitator principle, the whirl method of pre-war. He said this is more efficient than wringerless washers.

As a dish washer, the Thor needs only a new attachment—a metal plate for pots and pans and a wire basket with space for a complete dinner service for six.

HOT WATER RUSHES OVER the dishes at a 35-miler per hour rate. A continual stream of water is necessary, Hurley said, as the washer holds only two quarts of water, used over and over again. Hurley explained that the once irrecapable headache of food scrapes clogging a dish washer drain has been solved by using ingenious metal fingers, which grind large particles of food to powder.

As a result, only bones and potato peelings need be scraped from plates before they are placed in the washer.

The machine both washes and dries dishes, operating on the same spinning principle as the clothes washer.

THE THIRD MIRACLE, a potato peeler, is another attachment—a small tub coated with abrasive. The potatoes are spun rapidly, so that the abrasive literally skins the vegetable.

Hurley said both the prospective butter churn and ice cream freezer will fit into the machine as do the other gadgets.

A paddle in the butter churn will beat the cream, using the agitator motion.

A tub with an outer compartment for ice and salt will freeze ice cream, whipping up the cream continually as it is frozen. It is Hurley's idea that the best ice cream is frozen while in motion.

AS A KITCHEN UNIT, the automatic weighs 290 pounds and stands three feet high and two feet square. It is portable and easily moved about.

Hurley has been working on this housewives' dream since 1940. He said the cost of this device, with both clothes and dish washing attachments, will be less than the price of standard pre-war washing machines.

THE OATH TO THE FLAG

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands; one Nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all.

Potsdam Justice

The general feeling about the terms in the Potsdam communique is that they are fair enough. If they seem sharper in some respects than those of Versailles the plain fact is that the Germans asked for it. They reduce the chance of Germany's making war while at the same time they do point to a chance of a decent future for the German people if they want it enough to co-operate in trying to get it.

Like all human plans, defects will show up later, unforeseen problems will arise in the general situation and corrections will have to be made as time goes on. But in the fact that the need for improvement is generally understood lies the real hope.

That Greek philosopher who said "all things flow", had something. Life is a stream made up from many sources. The best that human beings can do is to try to guide its flow in the right direction rather than the wrong one, which is to say towards life and progress rather than destruction and death.

On the whole, the Potsdam declarations lay a basis for justice.

A rose by any other name may be just as sweet, but you couldn't call last week's doings at the Fair Grounds a county fair. But apparently it's what the people want — this "fair" finished well in the black and regulation fairs seldom have done that.

Sanitary Coal Mining

Now that we have about all the liberty we can use in this country, there has arisen a corresponding demand for sanitation. It may be a little late in its arrival, but in hundreds of communities it is making up for lost time. A typical example is the small mining town of Force, Pa. The crusading spirit, as usual in recent cases of this kind, is a woman. Adding effectiveness to the hygienic enterprise is the fact that she is a doctor. And a doctor not of divinity, but of medicine, which ranks cleanliness next to godliness.

Her name is Dr. Elizabeth O. Hayes, aged 33, a former worker at the famous Grenfell Mission in Labrador. She has declared that she will resign as physician of the local mining company unless the company makes health improvements in the company-owned houses.

If the company refused, and Dr. Hayes' threat were carried out, apparently it would leave the whole mining area without medical care. But the insistent doctor may get what she wants.

Life and Water

It pleases us to see Calvin Byers in his "Farmer's Diary" preach so consistently the gospel of soil conservation. He is a neighbor of Louis Bromfield down in Ohio and has absorbed much of his enthusiasm for the cause from Bromfield, but perhaps more from his own farming experience.

Again and again, Byers presses home the point that the life of an individual cannot long be sustained without water. Neither can that of farm or industrial community. People on farms are always conscious of water. People in cities become so only when water pressure becomes low, or fails, in homes or factories.

Life cannot long be sustained without good topsoil, either. But this land was so extremely rich when its settlers first began to plow that it took a long time for people to realize that the soil's depth and fertility were not infinite. Rotation of crops became necessary. Many land-owners of southeastern states moved westward to start over again with untouched soil for their cotton and tobacco. They found limits to the Mississippi Valley, too. So finally growers had to realize that what they took out of the soil they must put back.

It has taken even longer to learn that letting rain wash off topsoil into waterways was bad on three counts. The water needed for the crops at this year and ten years from now was lost, the water table sank lower and lower. The precious topsoil was lost. In many places it has all been washed away, down to infertile rock or sand. Finally, waterways which should have been deep and strong silted up. Harbors and navigability were lost in some cases. In others, drinking water became unpalatable if not dangerous.

Growing consciousness of the need to preserve soil and water is necessary.

Uncle Sam and Stalin

In thinking about the Japanese problem, it is well to realize that the Japs are not only numerous and active, but are spread over a large part of the northern hemisphere. So it may be fortunate, rather than otherwise, that the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics spreads half way around the world, bordering on the polar regions. As long as the Soviets are our friends, and serve as a bulwark against the Japs, it is so much to the good.

Ideology is something else again. We do not like bolshevism in any form. And by the same token the Reds don't fancy our free, democratic ideals. But latterly they seem to be minding their own business, as we are minding ours. And on this basis we may continue to get along with a reasonable amount of cooperation against our common enemy—the Japanese.

Good News from Potsdam

BY JAMES THRASHER

It is entirely too early for anyone to pretend to be able to evaluate with assurance or finality the results of the recent Big Three Conference in Potsdam. But most people likely will agree that the information made available concerning the meeting encourages something stronger than mere hope toward the sort of world in which all of us want to live—a world of peace and security.

No one attempts to pretend that all the problems now besetting the world have been solved as result of the conference. Participants in the conference made no such claims as that in their first voluminous reports concerning their meeting.

But there is good reason for hope and confidence that the conference represents nothing less than an all-important good start toward the settlement of questions which must be settled if peace is to endure. There is reason for hope that the conference has laid a foundation and started a framework upon which mankind can build securely for the future.

Meanwhile, at least two reported conclusions of the conference are sure to meet with virtually unanimous approval among democratic nations.

The lesser of these was the declaration that Franco Spain will not be considered for admission into the family of United Nations. Words are superfluous on this proposition because it is inconceivable among democratic peoples that either France, or anything he typifies could be received in fellowship among democracies.

Of more importance—of utmost importance—was the announced decision affecting Germany. This was the decision to deny to Germany, indefinitely, the pursuits, the industries and the opportunities which might be utilized for wars of conquest. The Germans have proved they cannot be trusted with anything that might be utilized to the detriment of their fellow men. So the conference decided they are not to be trusted with opportunities they almost certainly would abuse.

Something of sidelight of the conference was the conduct of our new President, Harry S Truman. Many observers have wondered how he would fare in his dealings with the heads of other governments—whether the United States and the cause of world democracy would suffer because of the absence of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

No one can say positively whether Mr. Truman did as good a job at the conference as Mr. Roosevelt would have done. But first reports indicate that the interests of the American people were well served by our new President. Events of the future even may prove that Russians and Britons preferred the technique of Harry S. Truman, typical American.

PETER EDSON

In Washington...

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

In these uncertain times of reconversion it behooves responsible public officials in charge of this shift from war to peace to know what they're talking about or else hush up. Two recent incidents illustrate the point.

A recent charge that the Army was taking railroad battalions and converting them into combat artillery seemed worth checking. The charge was made by Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. Its apparent purpose was to show the War Department was resisting efforts to get experienced railroad operations men discharged from the armed services. The conclusion drawn was that the Army was thus contributing to the present U. S. transportation crisis.

Investigation reveals that Colonel Johnson's charge is the truth, but not the whole truth by a long shot. The unit referred to consists of 195 men. They were members of the two railway operating battalions involved in the Paris black market scandals last winter. They stole Army gasoline and sold it to Frenchmen for $7 a gallon, cigarets for $10 a carton, chocolate bars at $1 each. One hundred fifty men were caught, court martialed and convicted.

The other 115 men were given a chance to clear their records by service in combat. All accepted and further agreed to forfeit their pay until the value of the stolen goods was made good.

WHILE THE WAR Department comes up with a clean nose in this first instance, the record isn't so good in the second case, which is this.

Principal reason given by War Department spokesman for unwillingness to discharge skilled workmen such as lumberjacks, coal miners or railroad workers who may have jobs waiting for them is that the British tried this system after the last war and the troops mutinied.

Investigation shows this argument is no good for two reasons. First, because the British demobilization riots after the last war had nothing to do with the system of discharge by job classification. Second, because the British now have another system of discharging men of certain skilled trades, and it is working

THE BRITISH EXPERIENCE and example would therefore seem to indicate that a system of limited occupational discharges will work. And after a week's wrangling among U. S. government manpower authorities in Washington, the War Department now seems to have come around to this way of thinking. This is indicated by the announcement that some 1300 high point ex-railroad workers are to be given expedited discharges which will release them for civilian railway service by Aug. 10, while another 2000 will be released later.

The railroad discharges are no precedent for the Army's granting occupational discharges to high point coal miners or lumbermen who are also badly needed in U. S. industry. But it is recognition that this kind of manpower problem can be worked out.

Town Talk

GOOD MORNING

Ever sit down and think back over the different bosses or immediate superiors you have had? Ever try to figure out which one meant the most to you. . . which one taught you the most about who has helped make you what you are today? Someone without whose help you wouldn't be where you are today? Surely, there is . . . Have you ever summed up all you have learned from that man? If you haven't then, do so today. It will be time well spent because it will help you recall many half-forgotten lessons.

THE 21 NAMES WHICH Seaman Pete Murdick of Alpena counted on the USO register at Honolulu were Herman Saretzky, Pete Murdick, Albert Seeger, Ralph Mischley, Robert Richard, Kenneth Mortimer, John Newhouse, Arnold Dodd, Glen Seymour, Bruce Fiandt, Don Oakes, C. LaBecque, Chet Wisniewski, M. T. Neil, Jerome Kanowowski, Tony Grzeskowiak, K. W. McQuarrie, William H. Christiansen, Arthur Smith, Vernon Flood all of Alpena and Manley Tate of Onaway.

A BOY IN OUR neighborhood is always trying to use long words. Sometimes they come out all right and again, they don't. While eating breakfast recently with his father, four eggs were served. The boy took two, the father one. The boy gulped down his two eggs and eyeing the remaining egg, said "Dad, if that egg isn't occupied, may I have it?" The not so indulgent parent replied, "Son, if it is not occupied, I would like it myself, but if it is occupied, you are more than welcome to it."

THE YEAR IS MORE than half gone and we still haven't heard the annual idiotic popular song like "Mares Eat Oats" unless, perhaps, it is "I Wuv a Wrabbit."

RAMBLINGS

An observer reports to us that Frank D. Scott of Washington, our former congressman, enjoying the summer at his home here, has taken to kite flying. That is, he is teaching some small boys the art in which he was proficient when a boy in Alpena. Monday morning he had a group of boys up in the field at the corner of Fourth and Blair with kites. The observer says that Frank D. was the biggest boy of all.The raspberry market is apt to be glutted on Wednesday for the Scot threatens to take to the berry patch as a picker for a day. Other berry pickers be on the alert for your records for the Scot may be a mighty picker and again he may not. That's all—only, now that we had good rain, couldn't the road commissions of Alpena and Alcona county do a little dragging to sort of ease the washboard conditions existing. They are pretty hard on tires.

The Man on the Corner—"If you have to wait your turn in a barber shop, there's a reason. My barber friend tells me that where Alpena once had 34 barbers today it has 14. A state barber inspector says the local condition is general, that he could place 500 barbers in Michigan."

If War Lords had read the history of ancient despots who tried to impose the rule of might over right, of the material over the spirit, they might have led their nations to power instead of ship wreck. Tiny Tots Teeth

BY E. A. SEPULL

Small cavities in the teeth of young children may not be visible to anyone but a dentist, but they are frequently existent.

Baby teeth eventually must go to permit formation and full development of those we use through later life, but they need not become a source of pain and infection if proper dental care is obtained in time.

Only a few moments are required in which to let a dentist examine your tiny tots' teeth for cavities small or large.

Proper dentifrices are available when you patronize a trusted druggist.

Farmer's Diary

HIRED MAN FOR LIFE

Deleted of a few strong words, here is one farmer's story, as he told it to me;

"Sure—it's a fine farm, here. A hundred and sixty acres, with a piece of muck, spring water in every field, good, well built, all modern buildings and right smart o' stock and tools.. Nobody that lives here ever needs to hungry."

"But you don't sound enthusiastic."

"Man, I ain't! But there's not a thing anybody can do about it . . now. You see, when I was younger, I thought I was smart. I was a good worker and I never put to a prosperous farmer's unmarriageable daughter, thinking if I could win her, I'd come into owning a farm in a hurry. Thought I'd save myself a lot of time and outlay, and do her a favor, too.

"He wasn't a hard old man to work for—so long as he was paying me wages. And she was a good girl with some management about her . . . . I'll say, she was!

"So we got married. And I ran the farm—12 years I've run the farm, and by golly, I still feel like a hired man. Nothing that's here can I right easy-like call my own."

"But surely you're making some profits . . . ?"

"No, it all goes back into the property. Drain tile. A new hog house; a milking machine; new fences; a larger tractor, another silo. A new ell on the house. Each year I try to discourage my wife from adding more to the farm, but her father would never do it that way, and neither will she. The farm is in her name, and then it goes to our children, if we're fortunate enough to have any. Regularly, I don't have a share in any of it. And there's no honorable way out.

"Naw—I was too smart! I made my bed, and I'll have to lie in it. But, as I say, nobody here needs to go hungry, and I know how to work, and if like nice stock, there's one mare that comforts me more than anything else on the place. That horse has got more'n horse sense.

"Course I might ask—demand—more'n it gets. I might weget it, too . . . but—I'm not. Say, we've got a swell litter of new pigs . . . come take a look!"

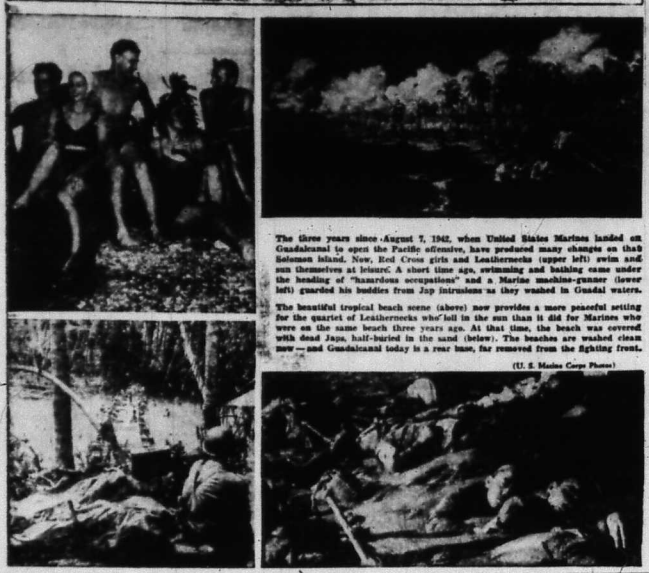
Guadalcanal Battlefront of 1942 Now Peaceful Rear Base



The three years since August 7, 1942, when United States Marines landed on Guadalcanal to open the Pacific offensive, have produced many changes on that Solomon island. Now, Red Cross girls and Leathernecks (upper left) swim and sun themselves at leisure. A short time ago, swimming and bathing came under the heading of "hazardous occupations" and a Marine machine-gunner (lower left) guarded his buddies from Jap intrusions as they washed in Guadal waters.

The beautiful tropical beach scene (above) now provides a more peaceful setting for the quartet of Leathernecks who fell in the sun than it did for Marines who were on the same beach three years ago. At that time, the beach was covered with dead Japs, half-buried in the sand (below). The beaches are washed clean now—and Guadalcanal today is a rear base, far removed from the fighting front.

Should the State Keep Title to Wild Lands in the North?

LANSING—Should the Conservation department get out of the real estate business?

More specifically, should it keep title to some 800,000 scattered acres of wild lands in northern counties—reserving them for use of the public—or should it continue its present policy of offering them for sale to highest bidders?

There is wide division of opinion even among members of land use planning committees in counties north of the Muskegon-Bay City line. Local groups in some counties protest the sale of a single acre; similar groups in adjoining counties may urge such sales and the return of these tax-reverted lands to local tax rolls.

Sales of all such lands must be approved by the Conservation commission. Recommendations of the land use committees largely influence the commission in its decisions concerning sale or retention of such lands.

THE 800,000-ODD ACRES are all that remain of the approximately 4½ million acres that have been returned to the state for nonpayment of taxes. The bulk of such lands have been incorporated in state and federal forests and state game areas or have been set aside for other public uses.

The department continues to offer scattered acreage at auction when the lands in question do not lend themselves to public use.

Whenever buyers present themselves agricultural lands are returned to private ownership if such sales do not involve the extension of roads or the supplying of new school facilities. In most instances, the department keeps title to lands which front on lakes or streams.

AN AVERAGE PRICE of $3.54 per acre was obtained for the 57,192 acres of land sold by the department during the last fiscal year. The 2,712 platted descriptions that were sold brought an average price of $18.61.

In the main, these prices are said to be below those asked for adjoining properties held by private owners. In most cases the tax-reverted lands held by the state are among the poorest in any locality and prices obtained are correspondingly low. The scattered holdings are wanted usually for cabin sites or hunting grounds.

With growing awareness in northern counties of potentialities in the vacation business, the conservation commission is giving consideration to this and other factors in determining its future policy.

ROMANCE IN THE SHIPYARDS!

Tigers Split Twin Bill; Fail to Extend Lead Over Idle Senators

Detroit Has Won 13, Lost 14 Since July 7

By Carl Lundquist
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — Detroit's pennant fever was complicated with severe chills today, brought on by a month of mediocre play in which only two clubs, the Red Sox and Athletics, have lost more games than the first place Tigers.

Since July 7, the Tigers have won 13 games and lost 14, hardly the pace with which to win a pennant. That they still remain in the lead, although by only a half game, is an indication of how tight the race has become since the midseason mariner was passed.

CHRISTMAN SERIOUS BUT NOT CRITICAL

ST. LOUIS—Third baseman Mark Christman of the St. Louis Browns was in a "serious but not critical condition" his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, said today after treating him for a brain concussion suffered when he was hit by a pitched ball.

The accident occurred when Christman was batting against speed-ball pitcher Allie Reynolds of Cleveland in the first game of a double header last night. The ball struck Christman over the right eye and he was carried unconscious from the field.

THE WASHINGTON Senators, now in second, were playing just so-so ball themselves until they ran into five double headers in as many days and won only five of 10 games. That gave them a record of 16 wins and 13 losses for the month, about the same pace of the White Sox set in leading the western half of the circuit with 15 victories and 11 defeats. The Cleveland Indians were next with 16 victories and 13 losses.

Even the trouble-beset Yankees did better than the Tigers winning 12 and losing 12. The seventh place Browns, who were leading the league at this time a year ago, played at exactly the same pace as the Tigers, winning 15 and losing 15.

The Red Sox were just a shade worse, winning 13 and losing 12 while the A's won 19 and lost 17 to bring up the rear.

The Tigers broke even in a double header with the White Sox at Chicago yesterday, muffing an opportunity to gain on the idle Senators. Al Benton pitched his 11th win against two defeats in the opener, beating the Sox, 6 to 2.

IT WAS DETROIT'S first victory in five games with the Sox, but they couldn't stand the pace and Johnny Humphries shut them out 7 to 0, in the second game.

The champion Brownies dropped to a new low for the season, losing two to the Indians at St. Louis, 9 to 7 and 8 to 4, to go all alone into seventh place.

Previously the Browns and Indians had been tied for sixth, but the double win moved Cleveland into fifth place ahead of Boston. Homers accounted for both Cleveland victories. Pat Seerey and Frankie Hayes delivering in the opener and Mickey Finders and Jeff Heath connecting in the second game.

No other American league games were scheduled and all in the National were rained out.

Plan Tremendous Sports Program In Pacific After War

By Jack Cuddy
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON— Col. E. E. (Swede) Larsen, chief of the special service branch of the marines and a former Navy football player and coach, said Monday that a tremendous morale problem for troops in the Pacific will be solving when the war ends with Japan.

"It is much greater problem than the one the army now is handling in the European theater," he said. "We estimated the combined services will have nearly three million men in the Pacific before Japan surrenders. Because of the vast distances involved it will take a long time to get them back home. Therefore we are planning the most extensive sports program ever attempted anywhere."

The equipment alone will cost more than 50-million dollars during the next 20 months, Larson said.

LARSON WAS ONE of a combined group of "brass hats" representing the special services of the marines, army and the Red Cross, who arrived Monday from Paris to witness the G. I. track meet at London's White City, starring Gunder Hagg and Arne Andersson.

The group arrived at Paris over the week-end from the United States and other scattered points. All flew to London in a special plane accompanied by five American fighter planes.

Others in the group were Capt. T. J. O'Brien, director of the navy's welfare bureau; his assistant, Lt. Tom Rickman; Maj. R. C. (Torchy) Torence, head of the marine athletic bureau and former athletic director at the University of Washington; Lt. Col. John H. Morrir, chief of the athletic branch of the War department special services; Gerald Fitzgerald, Red Cross athletic director for the European theater; Lt. Col. Frank McCormick, former director of athletics at the University of Minnesota and assistant chief of the army's special services athletic branch.

THE COMBINED GROUP is expected to study the army's European program more than a month before completing plans for the Pacific program.

Larson said that plans now were for at least five major sports bases or "stagings" to be established in the Pacific.

These bases he said, probably would be in the Philippines, the Marianas, Okinawa and the mainland, either Japanese or Chinese.

"We now are studying the army's European program which is magnificently organized," he said. "We expect to benefit from the army's work and avoid any possible mistakes."

Larson said that he expected softball, basketball, basketball boxing, and volleyball to be the principal Pacific sports.

Plant Trout to Find Commercial Fishing Effects

LANSING — Does planting of hatchery-reared lake trout in Great Lakes waters help commercial fishing?

Michigan and Wisconsin fishery authorities hope to find out through plantings of fin-clipped lake trout fingerlings.

An experiment undertaken last year will be repeated early this month when 100,000 marked fingerlings will be planted in Wisconsin waters of Lake Michigan. A similar number was planted last September off the Fox islands opposite Charlevoix.

The fingerlings have been reared in the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service station at Charlevoix.

A six-year experiment was begun last year in an effort to learn what effect such plantings have on commercial fishing success.

Claims are made that artificial propagation and planting of lake trout is wasted effort. The six-year experiment may provide the answer, as well as show whether Michigan is paying for fish that migrate to Wisconsin waters, or vice versa.

CYO Beats Legion; Fraser Opposes Besser Tonight

Using a surprise against the favored American Legion team, Manager Gerald Burnett's CYO aggregation won its first major battle of the second half race in the City Softball league by trouncing the Legion, 12-2, at Market Square Monday night.

Manager Burnett's surprise was hurler Bob Callender. Although Callender issued six bases on balls he struck out four batters and allowed but two hits, both singles. A discharged navy veteran, he has been employed as a camera operator at a local theater for the past few months. Before entering the navy, he was employed in Flint, where he participated in Class A competition.

ALTHOUGH THREE batters fanned in CYO's half of the first inning, the team was able to push in two runs on two hits and two errors, after Manager John "Biff" Stepaniak's Legionmen tallied one in their half of the first on three walks, an error and a hit.

An error, walk and single accounted for another CYO run in the second frame, and after Legion scored an unearned run in the first of the third, CYO came back in the same inning to score four runs on three walks, an error and a single.

Two errors, a base on balls and a single by pitcher Callender produced two more runs in the fourth. CYO ended its scoring in the fifth on three walks, an error and two hits, which netted three runs.

THE LEGIONS final run came in the seventh on a pair of errors and a fly ball.

Tonight, the favored Fraser aggregation will battle a greatly improved Besser team. Besser showed their improvement in two contests last week, whipping Art DeMolay 9-0 and upsetting Vaughn, 7-4. With both teams tied for first place, a battle is expected.

Sox Lose Orengo Gain Outfielder

CHICAGO—The Chicago White Sox today gave up reserve infielder Joe Orengo to the army but got back outfielder Bill Mueller from the navy.

Mueller, recently discharged, reported to Manager Jimmy Dykes for a workout before returning to his Bay City draft board for a routine examination.

Orengo was on his way to San Francisco for draft board induction tests.

Veteran Coach Was One of First Experts to Say That a Human Can Run a Four-Minute Mlie

BY NED BROWN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Emil H. Von Elling, veteran track coach at New York University, one of the greatest athletic mentors in America, was the first expert to declare that a human runner would some day do a four-minute mile.

At the time he made the prediction, Von thought he had the man right under his nose, Leslie MacMitchell, star of N. Y. U., who was dashing off miles around 4.08 and under on board tracks. But the war came along and MacMitchell went into the service.

"Maybe Gunder Hagg will be able to turn the trick this year," said Emil. "Or perhaps Arne Andersson will do it. Either of them has the ability.

"Psychology has a great deal to do with it. Nowadays it is generally conceded that it's possible. Back in the old days runners and coaches alike were convinced that a four-minute mile was humanly impossible. Milers, as a consequence, pointed themselves only to break existing records. They ran faster and faster as the records were lowered.

"HAGG HIMSELF was quoted recently as saying he believed he could turn the stunt. Hagg and Andersson have the physical attributes to accomplish the feat.

"Of course, there are other factors. Conditions must be ideal, the track fast and climate favorable. All these things combine in Sweden where Hagg and Andersson have been cutting the mark for some time. Sweden has about 20 excellent men at the distance, and many of them can do a half around 1.50.

"The track in the Stockholm Stadium, where the Olympic Games were once held is ideal for fast time. Remember the best Hagg ever did over here was about 4.05.3 for the mile.

"Besides, Sweden was fortunate in not being in the war. Their runners were not interfered with. Our best runners were taken into the service."

VON ELLING DOES not believe the first four-minute mile will be done by a runner going out specifically for the record.

"It's been my experience that when a man strives too hard, he doesn't always accomplish the most. He's too anxious.

"Merely going out to race against time puts too much of a mental hazard on the runner trying for this tremendous feat. He burns up too much nervous energy thinking about it. Oh, he might not realize it, but that old mental hazard thing is tough to beat."

Von Elling still believes that Leslie MacMitchell might have done it in four flat.

However, the veteran coach has no regrets. Perhaps after the war, new speed phenoms will be developed.

And when they are, perenially young Emil H. Von Elling will be right there to coach them.

Kocsis Crowned Michigan Open Golf Champion

GRAND RAPIDS— The knolls and valleys of the Cascade Hills country club still resounded today with the applause of the gallery as hundreds of spectators witnessed the crowning of Chuck Kocsis, Detroit amateur, as the new Michigan open golf champion.

In a dog fight which had the spectators hanging on each move with bated breath, Kocsis who won the National intercollegiate title nine years ago yesterday nosed out Sam Byrd, Elum Hollow pro and the defending state champion, by two strokes at the end of 72 holes of blistering sub-par play.

Kocsis finished with a total of 277—11 under par—for the distance, while Byrd shot a last-round 63 for a 279.

Fair Weather For Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N. Y.—Fair weather was expected today for the opening of the three-day grand circuit trotting meeting which will be highlighted by tomorrow's running of the rich Hambletonian stakes—the Kentucky Derby of the harness horses.

The Good Time track was drying out quickly and was expected to be fairly fast by tomorrow according to drivers who worked out briefly late yesterday after daylong rains.

A field of 15-two-year olds was named for today's feature race.

Titan Hanover, the odds-on favorite to capture the Hambletonian tomorrow, was expected to lead a field of 15 nosers to the post, one of the largest on record.

Benton Posts Eleventh Win In Opener

CHICAGO—Detroit's unpredictable Tigers don't know any more about the secrets of the atomic bomb than you do, but they learned in their nightmarish six-game series with the Chicago White Sox how it feels to be under one when it is dropped.

Starting out from Detroit last week with a comfortable margin over the second-place Washington Senators, the Tigers, under the hammering assault of the White Sox dropped five of the six games played and gradually saw their lead whittled to half a game.

Big Al Benton led the Bengals to temporary respite by hurling an eight-hitter and subduing the pale hose, 6 to 2, in the opener of yesterday's twin bill.

BUT CHICAGO renewed the assault in the nightcap, and, aided by the wildness of Zeb Eaton and the four-hit pitching of Johnny Humphries, wound up the series with a 7 to 0 triumph.

The White Sox touched Eaton for three runs in the first inning on three walks, two infield hits and a wild pitch.

Benton, on the other hand chalked up his eleventh victory against seven defeats.

The big right hander has yielded no more than two runs in any game during the last 120 innings he has pitched. All only 13 of those runs were earned.

In the White Sox half of the first inning Wally Moses was passed and Kerby Farrell singled, an early uprising that was momentarily halted when catcher Bob Swift picked Moses off second. When Leroy Schalk and John Dickshot singled, however, Farrell scored.

For the following five innings, Benton took control of the situation and held the White Sox hitless. Successive singles by pitcher Orval Lopat, Moses and Farrell, scored Lopat in the eighth.

THE TIGERS ENTERED the second colorless frame in the second inning on Rudy York's single, Jimmy Outlaw's double and a fly by Maier, and sewed up the contest in the sixth with four more runs.

In the latter inning, York opened with a single and went to third on Outlaw's double.

After Maier walked, filling the bags, Swift singled, scoring York and Outlaw. Benton then worked the old squeeze play, scoring Maier. He was safe at first when catcher Mike Tresh booted the ball.

Webb's single, scoring Swift, was the Tigers' final run.

The Tigers are scheduled to return to Briggs Stadium tomorrow for a home stand of 22 games, opening with a five-game series against the Boston Red Sox.

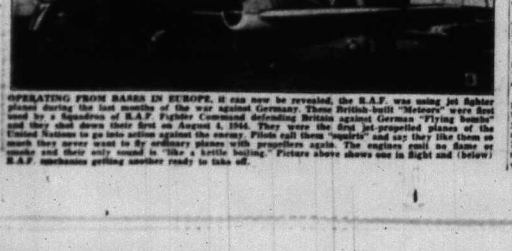
Jet-propelled Fighter Planes in Action



OPERATING FROM BASES IN EUROPE. It can now be revealed, the R.A.F. was using jet fighter planes during the last months of the war against Germany. These British-built "Meteors" were first used by a squadron of R.A.F. Fighter Command defending Britain against German "Flying bombs" and they shot down their first on August 4, 1944. They were the first jet-propelled planes of the United Nations to go into action against the enemy. Pilots call them "meteors" and say they like them so much they never want to fly ordinary planes with propellers again. The engines emit no flame or smoke and they usually sound "like a kettle boiling." Picture above shows one in flight and (below) R.A.F. mechanics getting another ready to take off.

ANOTHER PROOF OF JAPANESE TREACHERY—Further proof that Japan is a nation without honor is the enemy hospital ship pictured above. Sailing under the safe conduct usually accorded such vessels she was boarded in the Banda Sea in the East Indies for a routine Allied check-up. Result was the discovery of ammunition and other contraband in boxes marked, "medical supplies." When bandages were removed from some of the 1500 "patients" on board, no wounds were found.

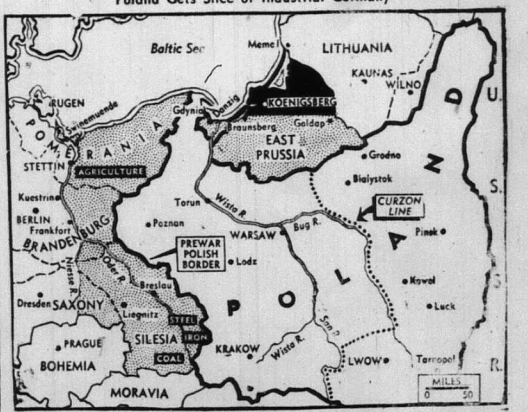
Poland Gets Slice of Industrial Germany



The Big Three tentative agreement on Poland's boundaries is slightly different from those reportedly proposed by Polish leaders. Eastern boundary was set at the Yalta conference. Russia will get Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia, and surrounding territory. Poland gets the rest of East Prussia and all of Germany east of the Oder and Neisse rivers. Poland does not get the big port of Stettin, but does get Swinemunde, militarily important as it dominates the mouth of the Oder.

War Kitchen

Your family will welcome the cooling and appetizing flavor of well-seasoned jellied soups as a first course for August meals.

Jelling Tomato and Mushroom Soup
(Serves 4-6)

One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup canned sliced mushrooms, 1 cup hot soup stock or consommé, 1 cup tomato juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon onion juice, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1½ teaspoons finely chopped parsley.

Soften gelatin in mushroom liquid drained from can of sliced mushrooms, and dissolve in hot soup stock or consommé. Add tomato juice, salt, pepper, onion juice, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in sliced mushrooms. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, spoon into bouillon cups and garnish with a slice of button mushroom and a sprig of parsley. Serve with slice of lemon.

LAVAL ACCUSES PETAIN—Pierre Laval, French arch-collaborationist, turns, above, toward Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who is on trial for treason in Paris. During most of his testimony, Laval's back was turned toward the 89-year-old hero of World War I, whom he witness accused of working with the Nazis in their subjugation and domination of France.

Large salads of mixed greens are important hot weather foods. Use not only lettuce, but other available greens such as Chinese cabbage, watercress, little tender leaves of spinach, parsley, the feathery and delicate tops of celery and garden greens.

Vegetable and olive oil are scarce or expensive, but a good dressing can be made with mild-flavored fat with this newly developed recipe:

Salad Dressing
(Makes 3-4 Cup)

Beat together 1 or 2 eggs and 3 tablespoons vinegar until smooth. Add 1/4 cup milk, 1 tablespoon table fat or drippings, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon mustard, 1-8 teaspoon celery seed, and a dash of paprika. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until the mixture has just thickened (about as thick as heavy cream). Three or 4 egg yolks left from other cooking may be used in place of whole eggs. Store in the refrigerator in a covered container.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAK FAST: Black berries, cornflakes, warmed coffee cake, apple butter, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Jellied tomato and mushroom soup, salted crackers, toasted peanut butter sandwiches, fruit cup, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice cocktail, soya crackers, dried lima beans, onions and green peppers, heated French bread, butter or fortified margarine, blueberry roll, foamy lemon sauce, coffee, milk.
